The future looks promising for the life insurance industry with several changes in regulatory framework which will lead to further change in the way the industry conducts its business and engages with its customers. Demographic factors such as growing middle class, young insurable population and growing awareness of the need for protection and retirement planning will support the growth of Indian life insurance.

IV. CONCLUSION

Where almost all the industries in the world trying hard for survival due to the major economic meltdown, Indian life insurance industry is one of the sectors that is still observing good growth. It is the changing trends of Indian insurance industry only that has made it to cope with the changing economic environment. Indian insurance industry has modified itself with the passage of time by introducing customized products based on customers’ need, through innovative distribution channels, Indian life insurance industry searched its path to grow. Changing government policy and guideline of the regulatory authority, IRDA have also played a very vital role in the growth of the sector. Move from non-linked to unit linked insurance policies is one of the major positive changes in Indian life insurance sector. Similarly, opening on the sector for private insurer broke the monopoly of LIC and bring in a tough competition among the players.

Though the sector is growing fast, the industry has not yet insured even 50% of insurable population of India. Thus the sector has a great potential to grow. To achieve this objective, this sector requires more improvement in the insurance density and insurance penetration. Development of products including special group policies to cater to different categories should be a priority, especially in rural areas. The life insurers should conduct more extensive market research before introducing insurance products targeted at specific segments of the population so that insurance can become more meaningful and affordable. By adopting appropriate strategy along with proper government support and able guidance of IRDA, India will certainly become the new insurance giant in near future
