Arranging the tours giving overview of junnar tehsil

CONCLUSION

With a wealth of biodiversity, the junnar region has definite potential for tourism. However, previous developments mean that tourism cannot follow the pattern successful in other regions. Wilderness cannot be recreated and the established tourism infrastructure cannot simply be removed or ignored. The proposed study provides a new solution to the problems facing junnar. The implementation of this plan will require decisive action and legislation to ensure that the changes are enforced. This has not happened in the past because there is no desire to change amongst key stakeholders, notably business owners, planning committees and the local government. Education is very important to changing attitudes and should remain an important component of any tourism proposal proposing the concept of the tropical park including all the amenities and activities under one roof which will encourage the tourism activities of junnar tehsil and there by channelizing tourist to change the present scenario of tourism business of junnar tehsil
