Abstract

The two leading giants from the automobile sector in the Indian economy are fighting for the market share and profitability and the following paper gives a financial study of the short term ratio analysis of both the companies and comparing their financial performances and to conclude whether the market share is doing it for the companies or there is any impact on the performance of the companies

Index Terms - Quick Ratio, Current Ratio, Financial Analysis, Financial Comparison

OBJECTIVES OF THE STUDY

1. To make the short term financial analysis of Maruti Suzuki
2. To make short term financial analysis of Hyundai
3. To make comparative short term ratio analysis between Maruti Suzuki and Hyundai

I. INTRODUCTION

Maruti Suzuki and Hyundai are the two leading automobile giants in the Indian economy but for Hyundai it looks bit difficult to overtake Maruti Suzuki as Hyundai only cover approximately $20 \%$ market and Maruti covers more than $50 \%$ of market in India and that adds to the flavor that every $2^{\text {nd }}$ car sold in India is manufactured by Maruti Suzuki but the fascinating thing is both the companies have manufactured cars for the middle-middle class and upper-middle class but yet still to capture the elite class in India and the most loved car in Europe is Hyundai so both the cars have their loyal customers but in two different part of the world. But coming on to the lifeline of the business that is finance both the companies are doing really good they both have stabilized sources of earnings and the improved profitability has added to the value of both the companies signifying that they are not out of the competition at any point of the time.

Liquidity Analysis of Maruti Suzuki

On the basis of Current Ratio and Quick Ratio
Current Ratio=Current Assets/Current Liabilities
Quick Ratio=Current Assets-Inventories

For 2018

Current Ratio=8798/15448.50
$=0.57: 1$
Quick Ratio=5637.8/15448.50

$=0.36: 1$

For 2017
Current Ratio=7951.1/13236.8
$=0.60: 1$
Quick Ratio=4687.4/13236.80
$=0.35: 1$

Observations for Maruti Suzuki

1) Inventory holds a major portion in current assets
2) There is constant rise in short term liabilities and at the end of Financial Year 2018 the short term liabilities have risen up by $16.7 \%$
3) There is rise of $10.65 \%$ of current assets at the end of Financial Year 2018
4) In comparing financial year 2017 and 2018 there is fall in current ratio because the rise in current liabilities is much more higher in \%age than current assets
5) But on the other hand there is rise in quick ratio because there is fall in value of inventories and rise in trade receivables and hence there is rise in quick ratio

Observations

1) On the comparison with current ratio both the companies are not able to meet the theoretical benchmark of $2: 1$ but still the Hyundai company is in good position than Maruti Suzuki
2) Same is the situation is in quick ratio and Hyundai has the upper hand in matching the theoretical bench mark of $1: 1$
3) Both the companies are not able to manage the contribution of inventory in the current assets
4) Fall in the current assets and rise in current liabilities has been trend for both the companies
5) But in the comparison of short term solvency amongst the two giants Hyundai has the upper hand

II. CONCLUSION

It can be concluded that both the automobile giants have done and are doing best to their potential in maintaining their market and the comparison chart of the short term ratios have even clarified so far that Hyundai is having the upper hand but yes the observations have been provided and the thing is to be notified that Maruti Suzuki is the one of the oldest companies in India providing best quality goods at affordable prices in comparison to Hyundai and on the other hand Hyundai is also putting the effort to provide good quality products at affordable prices and hence trying to penetrate the market with its customer base but all in all with this 2 year small COMPARISON IS CAN BE CONCLUDED THAT HYUNDAI IS HAVING UPPER HAND IN THE BATTLE OF FINANCIAL COMPARISON
