Online advertisement is becoming one of the most preferred medium of advertisement and having extreme potential for growth. Online advertising is latest and fastest growing means of advertisement in current modern era. The growing dependency of people on internet as ultimate source of diverse information and communication medium, has made online channels as leading advertisement platform. It presents new and fast paced experience for online customers.

Online advertising refers to advertisements delivered over internet to online users via webpages, e-mails, ad-supported software and internet-enabled cell phones. Online advertising mainly includes contextual ads on search engine result pages, banner ads, rich Media Ads, social media advertising, online classified advertising, mobile advertising, display advertising, web banner advertising and e-mail advertising.

Online advertising also called as internet advertising or web advertising, is a form of advertising which uses the internet facility to deliver promotional marketing messages to online consumers. Online advertising highly influences large number of online users due to its ability to reach out to a vast number of audiences through internet.
Online advertiser's main purpose is to reach consumers and influence their awareness, buying behaviour and decision making pattern.

Now a day, the most glamorous feature of promotion mix is the online advertising. In today’s life, online visitors come in contact with several online advertisements. The online marketers are designing online advertisements and presenting them in such an attractive way, to create demand for the products and services among online users.

Different types of online advertisements:

Floating ads

A floating ad is a type of rich media Web advertisement that appears uninitiated, super-imposed over a user requested web page and becomes unobtrusive after a specific time period. The most basic type of floating ads simply appear over the online Web page either full screen or in a small window. Its sophisticated versions may come in any shape or size including sound, animation and interactive components.

Static Ads

These types of ads are easily maintained as they contain permanent content that needs to be assembled only one time, thus makes an easily monitored ad format which requires a relatively low time commitment.

Expanding ads

These types of ads expand when online users click on them. It expands beyond the original size of the ad unit followed by a user-initiated action. It creates a greater area for the ads allowing interested users for more interaction.

Wallpaper ads

Trick Banner ads

It is a type of banner ads that attempts to trick online users, to click and often imitates an operating system message. It is an online banner ad that is designed to copy the style of an operating system or important software error message. Clicking on the trick banner ads takes the online visitor to the advertiser's webpage.

Pop-up ads

Pop-up ads are new windows that open in front of the current window displaying an advertisement. It is a form of online advertising which focuses on attracting Web traffic. These ads are usually generated in a new browser window with the help of JavaScript or Adobe Flash.

Pop-under ads

Pop-under ads are windows which linger behind the current browser window and appears only after other windows have been closed by users.
Landing pages

A landing page is a standalone web page created specifically for an advertising campaign. When online user clicks on a link in the email or ads from social media or similar places on the web, the visitor lands on landing page.

Flash Ads

Flash ads are a type of banner ads which uses Flash design having interactive elements to attract online users. These are Adobe's rich media file format used to display interactive animations on the Webpages. Depending on the online ad's design, an entire Flash ad may be animated or just some part can be animated while the other part remains static.

Banner Ads

Banner ads are image based advertisements that often appear in the side, top, and bottom sections of websites. They can range widely in terms of size, design and function. It is typically used in all sorts of news based websites, blogs and specialized online web communities. These ads stay on screen while users are interacting with the webpage and refreshes automatically after a short period of time.

Video Ads

These are small video ads that are designed to autoplay or sometimes designed to wait for the video to be played by the online visitor.
