There are many challenges at the national level in the current regime. So, the coming times are challenging for India.

Better to say, India's governance system is making rapid progress day by day --!The current world ranking has advanced a lot.

We know that good governance is a management system. And establishing this is our main goal. Various activities are underway around the world to establish good governance. India is also not lagging behind in this regard. How is India doing for good governance? What challenges are being faced? How are you finding a solution to it? In this article, I am engaged in searching for solutions to all these issues.

Key words : governance, crucial, integral, applied, diversity, technical skills, political awereness, corruption, obstacle, participation.

INTRODUCTION :

Governance is one of the most art of humankind. The stand of people is to capacity of own political awareness. Heat decrease during rain. And if there is good governance, unrest decrease. Fish start swimming joyfully in rainwater. And if there is good governance, people live in a happy society.

LITERATURE VIEW :In the Field of literacy, governance do not properly work. The practice of governance around the world has taken on an artistic from. Which man is his craftsman and man is has director. Which is essential for good governance.

Description of the preparation for good governance, very important from a literacy point of view. Everyday, new issues are arising in governance. Let this be our oath, finding a way to established good governance or reaching the target.

The search for good governance continues to this day like a flowing river. The ethical concerns of governance have been highlighted in both Eastern and western literature. By Confucius, Plato, Aristotle, John Rawls. J. S. Mill, Kautily, M. Gandhiji, Ambedkar etc.

METHODOLOGY :My research /writing topic is new horizon of governance. Especially good governance and E-Governance.

I am following the descriptive research method are observationally method, survey method and case study method. And qualitative research and quantative research are specially follow.

Bhagirathi, who brought Ganga to earth –bringing that kind of good governance to the country which shakes all the levels. There are many thing to say about of governance. Because governance have changed a lot now. I find out that governance not weldone. Governance must be aligned with reality.

What is Good Governance

Good Governance is governance for the welfare of the people. It means a system of governance that is formed for the welfare of the people. The main goal of good governance is improving the quality of life of the people, protecting their rights and creating a just and transparent society.

Public awereness to ensure good governance. And active participation is required. With good governance, society improves and the standard of living of the people increase.

Establishing good governance is a challenge these days. This is corruption, and the incompetents are circling it. Overall, good governance is completely lacking. The point is, good governance cannot be expected if one is greedy for power.

RESEARCH PROBLEMS:

The governance is both controversial and popular at the same time. Playing governance does not mean good governance. In search of meaningful governance --,

Plato and Aristotle's opinion on the standards of good governance and the quality of a good ruler are very relevant. And Indian political thinker Kautilya's description is the most relevant as so far.

1. What are the obstacles to governance?

2. Just because you are a public representative doesn't mean you are a public servant. And this is why good governance is a problem.

3. Leadership in politics with own interests. Which is creating problems of good governance.

4. Exemplary politics without learning political knowledge. This is one of the problems of good governance.

5. The economic greed of political leaders and activists. There are problems with governance.

6. A problem is institutional neglect.

From state to government, from government to administration. And governance from administration—this tradition will show the right path.

According to governance relations analysts, governance problems or obstacles should not be ignored. The faster we understand this reality, the faster we can find new path. Don't idle curiosity about the good governance. The biggest obstacle to governance is corruption.

In the context, some promising initiatives are certainly emerging. For example, Make in India is carrying out various responsibilities.

VARIOUS GOVERNANCE:

The satisfaction of hot rice and the rules of good governance – security and peace and order are equal feats.

1. Meaning and definition of governance

Governance is one of the most art of humankind. The stand of people is to capacity of own political power / awareness.

Governance is the supreme director good governance. The conduct of human society is essential governance system.

The political system is the director of governance.

2. E-Governance

It has opened a new horizon. Governance technical skills can be found in E-Governance. It's about using technology to improve the efficiency, effectiveness, and transparency of government operations.

Digital governance- Emphasizes the strategic approach to adopting and managing digital technologies within the government. It includes the policies of digital tools and technologies to achieve specific governance goals.

3. Definition of good governance –

Governance skills are found in good governance. Good governance ensures a society thrives by promoting fairness, accountability, and responsiveness in its governing bodies. It aims to build trust between citizens and the government, fostering a more stable and equitable society.

4. Global governance: International expertise is found in global governance. The unprecedented advancement of information technology is bringing people from all over the world together as one village or one city. We have had the opportunity to get to know each other and have established mutual relationships in all areas. This position is globalization. And good governance is essential protect it.

5. Corporate governance :

Corporate efficiency is found in governance. Corporate government is the system of rules, practices, and processes by which a company is directed and controlled. Good corporate governance promotes transparency, accountability and fairness, contributing to a company's long-term success and stakeholder trust.

The concept of modern good governance :”Today Administration is infact, process of accomplishing organization and goals through group activity “.Barkley said that, “Administration implies people, action and instruction”. According to Burgess, The establishment of good government, the development of national life and perfection of humanity, these are triple ends of the state.

INDIAN GOVERNANCE

The governance is of pivotal importance in developing countries like India. There is no disagreement about the relevance of good governance. It is a challenge to establish.

The governance system of India is popular in the country as well as abroad. The constitution of India is the supreme director of governance. The parliamentary forms of government with federal structure in a supremacy of central government e.t. Government of India

Indian struggle for good governance between the mix of self-rule of community and Indian governance.

The native monarchy or indigenious governance is the identity of a traditional good governance of India.

The three levels and three structure of Indian governance :

1. Central government- area of national—
2. State government -area of state levels which is called regional government.
3. Local government -District, Block and panchaite-rural / municipality-Urban.

Recent Indian governance problems :

In the recent Indian context, good governance is gradually fading away. The governments are indifferent to good governance recent ongoing events suggests so. State govt. are making various allegations against the centre. The central govt. is accusing state governments of not complying. Suffice to say, good governance has become an obstacle due to accusations against each other. R. G. Kar, the appointment of teacher etc.—these corruption incidents are blatant examples of that.

In the moment, it has become rediculous to expect a solution to corruption. And even the hope for justice has become tarnished. Those who are creating the eligibility criteria. They are the ones breaking the eligibility criteria again. This is situation is a terrible curse for good governance.

Let's take a look, way to solve of good governance :

What should be included in good governance?

- 1.Governments must have a sincere desire to solve the problem.
- 2.Pluralistic cultures must be respected. And monopoly policies and appeasement policies must be abandoned.
- 3.Public representatives and party leaders and activists must be accountable for justice.
- 5.People must come forward to break the silence.
- 6.Everyone must speak out against corruption.
- 7.Above all, everyone must cone forward to spread education and raise awereness.
- 8.party bandit or political bandits, the ones whose citizens are living of in fear. They will be the protection.

If these issues can be resolved, good governance can be expected. Good governance can devote itself to the true welfare of the people. I think if we could include these things ---for example, the widespread of education among the people, creating equal opportunities, to ensure equal rights and transparency in everything. Above all, make accountability mandatory.

Either way, we have to find a way to do good governance. Simply put, this desire has been changing politics for ages.

History of indian governance

To discover the mystery of the origin of governance, one must look to the past governance of the ancient Greeks, Romans and Indians.

How relevant is the rule of the past governance to the present? From ancient to exist governance in India.

According to plato, good governance means rule by those who possess wisdom and knowledge, known as philosopher King's. This is because he understanding of truth and justice can properly govern and lead a society towards justice.

According to Aristotle, well-ordered state is one that fosters virtue and promotes the common good, ultimately leading to the flourishing of its citizens.

Kautily, also known as Chanakya, advocated for a system of good governance entered on the well being of the subjects and the stability of the state. His philosophy emphasized public administration, fair justice, economic prosperity, and the importance of a responsible and accountable ruler. He believed that the kings happiness and welfare were intrinsically linked to the happiness and welfare of the people.

M. Gandhiji emphasized on swaraj -which basically means good governance. In the current Government of India, initiative for good governance in India. India is a members of ICCPR, PRAGATI, ADP etc. and NITI Aayog example of co-operative federalism. The good governance Index was launched on the occasion of governance Day on December 25,2019.

In short, peace cannot return to society without good governance. And governance cannot achieve good reputation. For example, the legacy of Chandra Gupta's rule still shines today in India as well as the world.

Political system and governance:

There are various different between the political system and governance. Political parties and Indian governance,In the moment, the governance and political parties is an integral part of each other. The problem structure of political parties. Multi-party democratic systems instead create obstacles to the development of democracy in the context of India. Such attacks on building a healthy political party are not desirable.

Religion is on the rise. The political leaders seized the opportunity. They are pursuing their political interest. In the same way, by showing the lure of the project, taking advantage of the vote, especially among women. Leaders at the moment, trying to attract women or their(leaders)tendency to be attracted to the eyes is increasing. Today their behavior is like that of a unsocial. He made a big plan by joining the political party. Give in to deception whenever you get the chance. Therefore, good governance cannot be expected from today's public representatives and leaders. Everyone is voluntarily picking up corruption.

Administration and Indian governance :The intimate relationship between the Indian administration and the Indian governance. The administrative machinery is supposed to be above mismanagement. According to the scientists, philosopher, writers, literary said that," The State exists to promote good life ".But it doesn't show. So, good governance is facing challenges.

The citizens and Indian governance :The governance system of India is the very much popular among the citizens. The importance of good governance is clearly written in the Indian constitution -founded on the principles of sovereignty socialism secularism and democracy -committed to the welfare of the country.

If these inventions and applications used correctly. Good governance is assured in India.

Many world country and organization on good governance :

In the moment many country all over the world emphasized on good governance. And many international, regional organization focused on good governance. The United Nation had given 8principles of good governance—these are Accountable, Traansparent, Responsive, Equitable and inclusive, Effective and Efficiency, Follow the rule of law, Partipatory and Consensus oriented.

OECD, World Bank. IMF, ILO, etc. are to focus on the good governance.

Importance of Governance and future :

The importance of governance in the management system of mankind is immense. There is no alternative to governance to keep people in order in social bonds. It plays a crucial part in human development and protection. If there is corruption in governance, good governance will decline.

There are many challenges at the national level in the current regime. The flow of events will tell so. So, the coming times are challenging for India. I would like to remind you that you should not stray from the path of good governance.

CONCLUSION

Everyone wants effective functioning of good governance. The conduct of human society is essential governing system. The political sector is the director of governance.

It is to say that, with the break-down of the machinery of governance, civilization itself shall go to pieces.

Finally, it's better to use an umbrella during rain. And when in society, it is better to obey the rules of the governance.

What direction the current governance takes after this, is what we are now watching.
